EXCAVATING FOR THE BRIDGE. LICS OF AN OLD GRAVEYARD DISCOVERED-

NOTEWORTHY BUILDINGS DESTROYED.

While the excavations for the New-York approach to the East River bridge were being made in the block between Rose and William-sis., the workmen same upon soil of a very different character from that which they had hitherto found. Beneath the beliars of a number of old trick and wooden tenement-houses and shauties there were discovered arge numbers of human bones, among which were several whole skulls. Together with these were old and broken gravestones, most of them so worn and discolored that the lettering could not be distinctly made out. To a Tribune reporter yesterday one of the officers of the bridge said that he thought that the bones of fully 200 persons must have been found. Many of them were in pits together.

It is supposed that these bones and gravestones were the remains of the old St. Mark's cemetery, which occupied the spot 30 or 40 years ago. When the property was sold for building purposes most of the bodies were removed, and it is thought that those not identified were put together into several pits. Two of the skulls and several piteses of skulls were taken to the office of the engineer of the bridge and added to the "museum" there. About a dozen bones, the larger and more peculiar shaped ones, were also taken to the office. Two of the gravestones were preserved, as they were unbroken and the inscriptions could be read. One is small and of a dark gray or slate color, the other larger and of marble of a brownish yellow color. On the inter the inscription reads as follows:

In memory of Rosina Hoffman, who died December 12. 1800, aged 1 year and 3 months and 5 days.

Sop, reaser, stop! Let Nature claim a tear. A mother's first and only child fee aere.

The inscription on the smaller stone is much less distinct and is as follows:

The inscription on the smaller stone is much less In memory of August William Martin Winter, who asshors the 23d of Marco in the year 176—and died on he 15th of September, 179—aged 34 years, 5 months

The last figure of each of the dates on this stone as been chip set off. Nothing more was saved of he relies found in the graveyard, and the bones and broken tembstones, together with other useless the relies found in the gravevard, and the bones and broken tombstones, together with other useless material, were carled away.

Among the buildings demolished to make room for the Rose-st, arch was the low wooden house in which Pistro Balbo murdered his wife. It was unpainted and hadry weather-stained, and stood directly back of a brick house which faced on Rose-st. A natrow hallway led through this house to a small brick yard, across which Balbo's house stood. In the cellar of one of the Rose-st, houses a large rasty bayonet was found.

To make way for the approaches several buildings to which a certain degree of historic value was attached bave been forn down. One of these was the house of William Varley, in Doverst, who was better known as "Reddy the Blacksmith." Another was the chair manufactory of Tweed on Franklin-square. In Pearl-st, the house has been demolished of the Englishman Flawkins, a glove maker, whose daughter cloped with a fireman and caused a sensation in the neighborhood. "Wadlow," the English parter-house of Charles Wadlow, once well-known and famous at the neighborhood, was one of the buildings destroyed. The old junk store in Front-st, of Bernard Coleman, an Irishman, who became rich in the junk business and as a shipchandler, also has been removed. Coleman made so much money here that he was able to return to his native country and purchase considerable property.

A nart of the foundation of the double arch at

A part of the foundation of the double arch at William and North William-sis, is composed of stone taken from the old Post Building, used for many years by the United States Government. This building stood at Hanover-st, and Exchange-place.

AN UPHAPPY HOME BROKEN UP.

AN UPHAPPY HOME BROKEN UP.

Officer Lundberg, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, yesterday took to the Jefferson Market Police Court Joseph McGowan, a bright looking boy of thirteen, whom he asked Justice Kilbreth to commit to the Catholic Protectory, as he had no home. It was learned from the officer that cutil Saturday last Michael and Mary McGowan, the father and mother of the boy, occupied rooms at No. 510 West Thirty-seventh-st. On Saturday night McGowan came home drunk, and after smashing all the crockery that he could lay hands on, he turned savagely upon his wife. She tried to get away from him, but he dragged her to the head of the stairs, and with a kick from his heavy boot sent her rolling to the landing below. She was picked up unconscious by the neighbors, who summuned the police, and the woman was removed to Roosevelt Hospital, where it was found that her left leg was broken. The boy Joseph with his sisters, Alice, age eight, and Annic, age five, fled in terror to the street. McGowan paid no further heed to his wife or children, but returned to his room, locked and bolted the door, and laid down on an old lounge to sleep. There he was found by the police. McGowan, was held to await the result of his wife's injuries. The two girls were found the same night wandering in the street, and were sent to the Catholic Protectory. Joseph lost his sisters and went to his aunt's house, but she, being unable to support him, took him to the Society. The children when found were clothed in rags.

SINGULAR CONDUCT OF A BROKER. Officer Malone, of the Twentieth Precinct, took before Justice Kilbreth, at the Jefferson Market Police Court, yesterday, Addison Peck, of No. 97 Seventh-ave., a cotton broker, against whom Thomas Esker, of No. 32 Chambers-st., his brother-Seventh-ave., a cotton broker, against which in-law, appeared and made a complaint of insanity. Mr. Riker stated that on Thursday night Mr. Peck acred in so violent and outrageous a manner as to induce him to believe that he had lost his reason and that it was unsafe for him to be at large. He was not only alarmed at his queer actions, but Mrs. Peck, the wife of the prisoner, was terrified at his conduct. Mr. Peck, about a week age, went to the New-York County Bank, at Fighth-ave, and Fourteenth-st., and made out a check for $1.000, but, owing to his strange actions and the curious manner in which he signed his name to the check, the paying teller declined to give him the money. Soon after he left the bank a policeman arrested him for disorderly conduct, when a large and heavily-loaded revolver was found in his possession, which he had no license to carry. On that occasion he was fined $10 for violation of the ordinauce in regard to carrying firearms. Justice Kilbreth yesterday committed Mr. Peck to the care of the Charity Commissioners for medical examination.

DEATH IN A FOUL CELL.

DEATH IN A FOUL CELL.

The body of the woman who, after attempting to commit suicide by drowning herself in a pond, died in the lockup at Newtown, L. I., has not yet been identified. The woman was of German descent and about sixty years of age. The body was removed to the Morene on a certificate given by Dr. Coombs. Coroner Seibs, deeming it a case for a coroner's jury, forbade the removal of the body. Notwithstanding his protest the body was removed on Monday, and on Tuesday the Coroner with two deputy sheriffs broke open the dead-house and removed the body back to the Town Hall. At the examination on Thursday evening Dr. Coombs testified to giving the certificate, and Dr. Gayler, who made the postmortem examination, testified that death was caused by congestion of the heart. The woman was ill when placed in the cell, and a physician was summoned to attend her; yet she was left alone to die. One of the witnesses, who accompanied the doctor when he visited the woman, said that the air in the cell was so hot that he did not believe a well person could live there over night, much less au invalid.

THE BRONX RIVER WATER SUPPLY.

THE BRONX RIVER WATER SUPPLY.

Commissioner Campbell has begun the work for obtaining an additional supply of water from the Bronx and Byram Rivers, by advertising for proposals, to be opened on August 4, for building the dam and reservoir on the Bronx, near Kenste's Station, and for furnishing and laving a portion of the conduit line of forty-eighth inch fron pipes. The surveys for the reservoir and pipe line were begun in August last. The maps were filed in December, and in May commissioners were appointed by the Supreme Court to appraise the value of the lands, water rights, etc., required by the city. Meanwhite the necessary lands for the dam at Kenste's have been purchased, and that part of the conduit line how to beland runs through public roads of the City of Yonkers, for which the right of Way has been granted, and through roads within the limits of New-York City.—As soon as the report of the commissioners is made and confirmed, the work for another portion of the pipe line will be advertised. The total estimated cost is about $620,000.

ADDING TO THE FLEET OF STEAM YACHTS.

The two new steam yachts Corsair and Stranger, built and furnished by William Cramp & Sons, of Philadelphia, the former for Charles J. Osborn, and the latter for Geo. A. Osgood, prominent Wall Street brokers, will leave Polladelphia to-day and arrive here to-morrow. These yachis are built from the same models, of fron, with an extreme length of 185 feet, breadth of beam 23 feet, depth of hold 12 feet. Both are fitted with the most modern appliances for working the vessel and saving fife, and the saloon, state-rooms, bath-rooms, galley and other parts of the vessels are furnished in the most elaborate style. The entire cost is about $100,000 each. One of the yachts made 15 knots on an engineer's trial trip on July 5, and the estimated average speed is expected to be between 18 and 20 miles an hour. The Stranger is completely fitted for sea, and will start on a cruise to the castward on Monday or Tuesday. ADDING TO THE FLEET OF STEAM YACHTS.

OFFICER MALETTE'S DEATH.

It is believed that Officer Malette, who was found with his skull fractured Thursday morning at the Ferry-st, crossing of the Newark branch of the Centuril Railroad of New-Jersey, at Newark, and who deed Thursday night, was murdered. Engineer Wyman, who ran the 3 m. freight train, positively stated that he saw Officer Malette standing some distance from the track at the time his train passed the bridge. No other train passed over the road until Dridge. No other train passed over the road until Officer Earle found the officer, with his skull Stushed, lying on the embankment alongside the OFFICER MALETTE'S DEATH.

GROWING SUSPICIOUSLY FAT. DR. TANNER GAINS ANOTHER POUND IN WEIGHT-DETAILS OF THE EIGHTEENTH DAY WITHOUT

Dr. Tanuer sat on the edge of his cot yesterday afternoon, conversing with his watchers. He was more talkative and cheery than on any previous day. He asked to see his photographs. "By George, if I'd known they were going to take such a bad-looking picture I wouldn't have sat." he exclaimed, looking at the representations of himself after sixteen days fast. "What a contrast," he said, as he examined the likeness of himself before the fast.

"You look better every time I come," said a vis-

"I don't know what I shall do." the doctor said;
"but I am no sporting man, and this fast is a serious scientific experiment. I don't like to have it looked at any other way."

Dr. Tanner is really enjoying life. It was found yesterday that he had gained another pound in weight. His rides, music, the varied mail and the visitors all enliven the monotony of his daily life. His sleep on Thursday mgat was surprisingly good. He was awakened at 5 a.m. for his drive through the park, during which a suspicious-locking demijohn, containing, however, only well water, was secured for his use. He seemed refreshed by his drive, and developed greater conversational powers than he had ever been supposed to possess. He was greatly delighted with the humors of the morning mail.

He was greatly delighted with the humors of the morning mail.

At 9 a. m. his pulse registered $2, his respiration 16, and his temperature 98%. Later he walked seven times around his inclosure. In the afternoon Dr. Tanner certainly proved his mental activity. He held a long conversation with a clergyman on the principles of Christianity, and also argued with a physician on fasting. He was weighed, showing a gain of one pound in twenty-four hours. He appeared in the role of medical adviser to some women, whom he advised to subsist on two meals a day, as this would be better for their health and their intellect. But the dector paused in his hygicinic exhortation to listen to a quartet, and brought down his came on the floor at the close of the singing as justify as if his arm were impelled by the force of several pounds of heef. Later, a congratulatory dispatch from Chicago and the present of two small music boxes cheered his heart at the same time. Thus he took a long, comfortable nap on his cot in the gallery, and waking, cool and comfortable, gazed blandly at his perspiring watchers and remarked, "I can discount you fellows on comfort."

About 6 p. m. the doctor went for his usual ride in the park, from which he returned about 8 p. m. A number of visitors was ready to welcome him, in

About 6 p. m. the doctor went for his usual ride in the park, from which he returned about 8 p. m. A number of visitors was ready to welcome him, including several singers. His pulse was 76.

"I cannot account for this continued gain in weight on any other supposition than that Dr. Tanner has taken food," said Dr. Maariee N. Miller last night. "Now he gained a pound and three-quarters between Wednesday and Thursday. We can account for that by the water he drank, and can allow a certain waste. This increased gain to-day can only be explained on the theory that he has eaten something. Yet I will frankly admit I have seen nothing suspicious."

When asked in regaid to this remarkable gain in weight, Dr. Tanner said; "It comes simply from the water I have drank. There will be an equally marked decrease, and after to-morrow I expect to loss steadily in weight."

Others beside Dr. Miller have been nuzzled to explain this gain. At the beginning of the tast Dr. Tanner weighed 1572 pounds. Monday his weight was 133, and on Tuesday 132 pounds. Thursday he was found to weigh almost 135 pounds, making a gain of nearly 134 pounds. Yesterday, at the clese of the eighteenth day, he weighed 13612 pounds, making a gain of over a pound in a day. While the watchers believe still in Dr. Tanner's honesty, this gain has naturally aroused half-expressed suspicions.

OFFICIAL DISAGREEMENTS. HOW THE MAYOR AND CONTROLLER IN BROOKLYN

SEE THINGS IN DIFFERENT LIGHTS.

"You haven't shown me proper courtesy in this matter," said Mayor Howell in his private room in the City Hall of Brooklyn yesterday, when Controller Steinmetz asked him to approve the bonds of General Jourdan and of Herman Colell. It appears that when these officers were first appointed their bonds were presented to the Mayor, but were laid aside unapproved. Thereupon new bonds were made out and approved by Controller Steinmetz, and filed with City Clerk McNamara. Yesterday the Controller in company with the City Clerk took these bonds to the Mayor for japproval. The Mayor claimed that the bonds should have been presented to him first. After the Controller had explained the matter, the Mayor's secretary said that he believed there were some such papers in his desk, 1420000.

"If official documents are not taken care of properly in this office, we had a right to do as we did," said Controller Steinmetz in a tone indicative of rising anger, and he turned upon his heel and walked away. The Mayor remarked that he would look into the matter.

He thinks that he will remain undisturbed until the legal expiration of his term, in May, 1881. In this opinion he is supported by his counsel, ex-Judge Morris. General Jourdan and Excises Com-missioners Colell and Stears made no vubine effort to clear up the muddle yesterday, although they were in consultation in the office of the first named. They have legal advice from General B. F. Tracy.

THE UNION OF ELEVATED ROADS.

THE UNION OF ELEVATED ROADS.

The Manhattan Company is a troublesome obstacle in the way of a consolidation of the elevated railroad systems. It owns no part of either line leased to it; it holds no property, and its life is measured by the continuance of the lease. If that should be annulled it would have no further reason for, being. Whether the company can be admitted into the new corporation, and, if so, on terms that will be satisfactory to the stockholders of all the companies, are questions which have not yet been solved. The mere formation of the new company would dissolve the contract which now gives life to the Manhattan Company, and on which the value of its stock depends. But if the lawyers of the companies should be cunning enough to avoid these difficulties, the question of an equitable distribution of the new company's stock is likely to be a knotty problem.

distribution of the new company's stock is likely to be a knotty problem.

A prominent director of the Manhattan Company, referring to this subject yesterday, said:

"We shall certainly consolidate the companies if the scheme is possible; and I think the companies will come very near an agreement at the next meeting. The chief difficulty now is the Manhattan Company, and the natural anxiety of each company not to be worsted in the division of the new stock. The necessity of restoring harmony to the management of these roads is simply absointe. Every one knows now that we are at loggerheads all the time, and in consequence of the distrust and jealousy between the companies that the property itself, is suffering."

ween the companies that the property is suffering."

Jose F. Navarro expressed no doubt that the consolidation would be effected. There were great difficulties, he said, but these would be overcome easily. The plan when projected would have to be submitted to the stockholders of the different companies, who were eager for a settlement of the bickerings between the directors.

PRACTICE GAMES OF LACROSSE.

PRACTICE GAMES OF LACROSSE.

There are few better grounds for athletic sports than the Prospect Park parade ground. Every pleasant afternoon the devotees of cricket and baseball cover the turf, there being room for a dozen clubs to play at the same time. The announcement of a return match of lacrosse between the Tornoto Lacrosse Club and the Brooklyn Lacrosse Club yesterday attracted a number of peeple, who went to Prospect Park only to find that the match was postponed till this afternoon, when it will be played on Staten Island. The postponement was due to the failure of a few members of the Brooklyn team to be in attendance.

The Toronto men arrived at the grounds at 4:50 p. m., and practice games were played between two picked teams selected from both of the claus. The members of the Toronto team were in excellent condition. The members of the home elab who were present were J. R. Flankery, W. H., Journeay, A. D. Ritchie, A. Barker, W. D. Baimer, A. Darling, J. W. Damiel, and C. M. Mackrell. Six games were played, each of the improvised teams winning three goals. The first game was won in half a minute, Donaldson getting the goal. There was some swift running in the second game, which was closed in seven minutes by a fine play of Martin. The third and fourth games were won by Mitchell, who made some good long dragonal throws. In the fifth game the splendid running powers of Arthurs were displayed. He is the champion half mile runner of Toronto. There was a first he round at 7:15 the teams left the ground.

The Toronto Club will go to Boston by boat tomorrow night to play with the Boston Lacrosse Club on Monday. They expect to return to Toronto on Tuesday.

A DISAPPOINTED INDIAN.

A DISAPPOINTED INDIAN.

Pride of the Forest was a disappointed Indian Thursday, when he found that he was not permitted to call upon General Hancock to offer congratulations upon his nomination. Pride of the Forest claims to be of the Choctaw tribe, and stands six feet seven inches in his stockings. He was dressed in an Indian costume of buckfir and a towering feather head-dress; he wore on his left breast a badge of the "Tammany Delegation to the Cincinnati Convention," and carried in his right hand a small campaign flag with "Hancock and English" in gilt lettering upon it.

As the Indian stood upon the Government pier, after being refused the privilege of visiting Governor's Island without a permit, he was the "observed of all observers" and an object of pity. He said his purpose in visiting Governor's Island was not to be timited to a call upon General Hancock, but he wished also to see other objects of great interest there. He did not consider that he had been fairly treated. He had come to New-York as a guest of the Tammany delegation, and now they had cast him aside. He would probably have stumped the Indian camps in the West in the interest 'of the Democratic party, but it was now uncertain what he would do. His funds were low, but he hoved to be able to avoid a forty days' fast by selling his photographs, of which he had several dozen with him. He left the pier in a snilen mood about 5 o'cleck, and started in the direction of a "fire water" shop.

A man who seemed to be well acquainted with the movements of "Pride of the Forest," said that the Tammany delegation had brought him to New-York, and after he had been here about a week they gave him "a hai-fall of money and a ticket to go West," but he had not left the city. He believed the Indian had sold his railroad ticket and speat his money and would soon be an applicant for charity. The Indian, dressed in the full costume and regalia of the Choctaw tribe, was again at the Government pier yesteriaw, and his request to visit Governor's Island and General

The railway consists of a great car, which somewhat resembles one of the East River dry docks, except that it stands on wheels. To this car are attached about five hundred feet of heavy cham. The car, when placed in the water, is partly sunk, to permit a ship to flout into it; then the car is raised and drawn with the ship up on the beach by steam power, the car chams being attached to an engine stationed about five hundred feet distant on the shore. It cost many thousands of dollars to construct the railway. struct the railway.

ATHLETIC GAMES TO-DAY.

The Manhattan Athletic Club, whose grounds are at Eighth-ave, and Fifty-sixib-st., will give athletic games this atternoon, begining at 5:15. There will be a 220-yards run for those who have never won a prize at this distance, and a two-miles run, with gold medais to first and second in each event. A special prize (gold medai) will be given to the winner of the two-miles run, provided he beats ten minutes. In addition Messrs, Myers and Purdy will attempt to beat the best amateur record for half-mile run (1:57½) and one-mile walk (6:14½). A large number of entries to the various contests have been received, including Bailey, Wilkinson, Gifford, Knight and others. Knight and others.
